Anti-Coolie Meeting-A Long Sleep-The Insult to Stuart Taylor. SAN FRANCISCO, December 29th .- [Spe ial.]-A monster anti-Coolie meeting wa held at Metropolitan Temple last night under the auspices of the Cigarmakers' International Union. Several prominent gentlemen spoke, and letters were read from Governor Waterman and others indorsing the object of the meeting.

Miss Laura Webster has been lying in a trance at her home, 122 Eddy street, for about ten weeks. She shows but little sign of life, and the case is a great puzzle to the doctors.

There will be music in the air when the time comes for local politics to bob up again. Last night the Pond Club held a meeting, and instead of accepting the resignation of Colonel Stuart M. Taylor, Naval Officer at this port, he was expelled. The club is run by the Buckley gang—like everything else that is Democratic here everything else that is Democratic here-and Taylor has "had his knife into" th boss for a year or so. Taylor is a gentle-man, and a fiery speaker, and he will be apt to make the fur fly when he next goes on the war-path.

Copyright, 1887, by the California Associated Press. MARYSVILLE, December 29th.-The Yuba and Sutter Immigration Bureau is preparing to decorate its rooms with a large quan-tity of oranges, lemons and other semitropical fruits. The Bureau has a list of about seventy-five farms in the valley and foothills which are offered for sale to actual settlers. This organization is supported by public subscription, and not by moneymaking characters. Its rules call for the protection of all home-seekers, and the Secretary will advise inquirers as to the nerits of lands offered for sale. There is no better field for investers in the State than these counties now present as there has been no boom to enhance prices of lands, although values show

His experience has in duced him to make preparations for plant-ing a ten-acre orange orchard next spring Many orchards and vineyards will b planted in this neighborhood during the present season, as such properties are found to give far better returns than are realized

Very Serious Matter. Copyright, 1887, by the California Associated Press Fresno, December 29th.—The assignment of George W. Meade & Co., telegraphed last night, was a great surprise to all our people. Meade & Co. have a large packing house here, employing in the season from 150 to 300 people, and have purchased almost all the fruit and raisins grown in the county, paying for wages and stock about $1,000,000.

Inquiry at the First National Bank where the firm kept their account, develops the fact that their indebtedness to the bank is only about $2,000. The bank also holds about $10,000 worth of collections in the hands of other banks, which amount in all to about $6,000. Those holding Meade & Co.'s paper here say it is worth par, having the fullest confidence that the firm will pay dollar for dollar. Mrs. George W. Meade owns considerable property here. The firm has also made several large purchases recently, which are worth much more than was paid for them.

opyright, 1887, by the California Associated Press. Washington, December 29th.-Carroll D. Wright, Chief Clerk of the Labor Bureau, to-day issued a report on strikes in the United States, embracing a period inshow, singularly free from serious labor troubles. New York leads the list in important strikes, Pennsylvania is second, setts fifth. The statistics for California show that during the period covered by the investigations of the Bureau there were 107 strikes, eighty-eight ordered by labor or-of days loss by strikes, 158; strikes successful, 77; parily successful, 1; failed, 29; loss involved by strikes, $324,629; assistance given strikers, $70,554. Before the strikes 10,977 men were employed; afterwards, 10,823. A total of 1,371 new employes were at work after the strikes, and 100 men were brought from other points to take places. The number of strikes that have taken place in Calinia cannot be given. So far as the facts collected by the Bureau show, all the strikes that have occurred in that State were in San Francisco, Oakland and Stockton, the vast majority being in San Francisco. In 1882, only three strikes were re-corded in San Francisco—one of fruit-can of wages, all of which were successful.

In 1883, the San Francisco boot and shoe employes struck and made a successful strike for increased wages. They were out ninety-eight days, and got an increase of twenty-five cents per day. The coopers in San Francisco also made a successful strike, being out thirty-four days and getting an increase of twenty-five cents per day. Domestic servants in San Francisco struck against the employment of colored help, and failed. The men in the brassworks struck for increased wages, and failed. The compositors struck against the employment of non-union men. Fifty prin-ters were out from July 30th to October

In that year 2,680 railroad employes struck for higher wages, were out twentyone days, and failed. The estimated cost of this strike to the employes was $55.300, and to the employers $25,000. THE COMING CITRUS FAIR. The annual Convention of the American Horticultural Society is to be held at San Jose, in this State, January 24th. At that time a citrus fair is to be opened there. The proposition was discussed in the State Board of Trade at San Francisco on Tuesday, and it was resolved to give the scheme cordial support. We publish this morning an invitation from the San Jose Fair managers asking Sacramento to take a section in the exhibition, and to send a representative delegation also. Of course the invitation will be accepted. The Board of Trade and Improvement and Immigration Associations will be proper agencies to organize the Sacramento exhibit, and will probably consent to do so. There will be no difficulty whatever in making a splendid showing, and that, too, with very little effort and not large expense. Indeed, if permitted, Sacramento could send exhibits in variety and quantity to half fill the exposition building. The fair is for Central and Northern California, and not for the Santa Clara valley and bay counties only. No misapprehension should obtain on this head. The occasion is a very important one. The assembling of the Convention in California means the bringing into the State of a large body of men skilled in and broadly informed upon the cultivation of fruit. Their report on their return East will have great weight with the people present population. there. They are not men at all likely to be deceived, or to go into ecstacies of com-assured that we will have impartial judgment at their hands. The present plan is to have the Convention hold part of its session at San Jose. and then adjourn to Riverside for the closing sessions. Speaking of that plan in the State Board of Trade, President Hatch said "that the sessions in Riverside will be entirely useless. After what some of us have seen in Oroville we may feel convinced that there is nothing that can be produced in the State which cannot be shown at San Jose. We can show all they can at Riverside, and a good deal besides." This is very true, but Mr. Smith, of Contra Costa, expressed cool thought when he said, "It would be just as well to have the Riverside session, that the horticulturists might have opportunity to contrast the plimentary enthusiasm in the houses of observation they will make of the country products of the different sections." Mr. Smith's judgment is correct. I would be unwise to attempt to prevent the visit to the south, though, as Mr. Hatch says, we can show any product that can be exhibited there, and a good deal more. But any effort looking to that end would be considered at the south as unfair and as indicative as a jealous disposition. On the contrary, the people of the north are not at all jealous of the south. The Eastern horticulturists ought to visit the southern portion of the State. It is a part of California, and one in which all Californians take honest pride. The center and north have no reason to fear comparisons. The Californian, true to the State's best interests, is for the whole State; for home first, of course, but for the State and every part of it. Let there be diligence, therefore, in making the San Jose fair one notable and representative in all respects. Every section of Northern and Central' *California ought to contribute to it, and we doubt not will do so.

THE GOVERNOR AND PRISON LABOR. The Governor says, in a recent interview with him, that he has the cordial co-operation of the Prison Directors in his plan of working the convicts in three shifts in the San Quentin jute mills. He says: In connection with San Quentin Prison I de-ire to say that it is my intention—and in this I sire to say that it is my intention—and in this I have the cheerful ec-operation of the Directors—that double, or for that matter, triple shifts shall be used in working the jute mills. I know I am told that such an undertaking is fraught with peril, and that there is great danger of the convicts escaping at high. However, I am willing to give it a trial. My idea of it is that the worst convicts should be worked during the daytime, and the men of good conduct be worked at night only. As forcutting electric wires and extinguishing lights, etc., this opportunity will be placed beyond their reach, and, besides, they will have very little time left for such amusement. At all even's we'll try it.

And why not? Instead of damlicating

And why not? Instead of duplicating plants many great manufacturers put on two and three shifts of men, and thus accomplish on less invested capital all needed results. In the chief manufacturing industry of this city the works are run upon that plan a large part of the time. It is a plain understandable business proposition the Governor makes, and, as he says, it is well worth a trial. OPPORTUNITY FOR EFFORT.

The evidence that the flood of immigration has:commenced to flow toward this section is now conclusive. The home-seekers are coming in great numbers. It is our part to stay their progress here, and induce them to visit the Sacramento valley. We can confidently rely upon that visitation doing for us all we can desire. A case in point met one of these intending settlers, en route to Los Angeles. Being induced to being interpreted, means Northern Citrus stop over here, a wager was offered, which he accepted, that the two should west. If the stranger should declare the number fails to comply with his oblifound the representations made to be unexaggerated, and if he was content after the examination of the region to remain each was to pay his own expenses. Before the journey was half-completed the Eastern man yielded, and as a result bought him a home in a northern county and has gone East to bring out his family.

Unquestionably all we need to do for those who arrive here is to induce them to spy out the land. The greatest density of population of Interior California is to be in the Sacramento valley; it is only a question of time when that fact will be realized in numbers. But the time may be greatly lessened by intelligent, vigorous and well-directed efforts on the part of our

> REV. HUGH PRINCE, of London, had the courage to say that "no man can rightly call himself an English gentleman who shakes hands with John L. Sullivan." Mr. Prince meant thereby "the first gentleman of England," otherwise his Royal Highess. Wales. The reverend gentleman was bold but right in his expression. The men who assume to be models of gentility, and yet recognize the bully Sullivan, whose slogging brutality has not stopped at the prize ring, but has been visited upon women, weak men and inoffensive persons, are not fit to fix the standards of decency. All the newspaper reporting of the prize ing, all the defenses made for athletics. all the pleas in support of "the manly art," all the recognition that kings and princes can give it and its high priests, will not make prize fighting anything better than brutal work, debasing and demor alizing to the last extreme. When the Prince of Wales shook hands with slogger Sullivan he offended deceney and outraged gentility. Not that the Prince is virtue tself, or that Sullivan's association would especially damage his sensibilities, but because, as heir apparent to the throne of one of the greatest nations of earth, he had no right to give public recognition and indorsement to a slogger, a fellow of the slums, whose abnormal development of muscle happens to make him an unequal antagonist for most men. Any influence that casts its weight in favor of this lawless man, and prize fighter, and beater of small men; this gross and vulgar animal puts itself upon a level with him, and that no self-respecting man-all such are gen tlemen-will do. THE President, says Mr. Randall, may feel it necessary to send a supplemental message, since such misapprehension prevails concerning his position as to the in ternal revenue. Well, it is needed: but if the President is no more happy in explaining than in proposing a policy, the supplemental message will need to be itself supplemented, that again to be explained by a third, and so on, in an endless chapter of explanatory involvement.

THE New York Times, which cannot be charged with any "protection" proclivities, admits as much as this: "It is use less to disguise the fact that tariff agitaness." Yet not before the 1st of next July iments, and results upon which a fixed If, asks the Albany Journal, a mere threat to "reform" the tariff can have such an effect, what may we not expect if the scheme succeeds?

The Yolo Mail says: "A hunis that of a citizen of Sacramento who dred farmers and rich land-owners of Yolo county have organized into a syndicate which they style the N. C. B. D. > Progressive Woodland. Woodland is the most progressive town f its size in Central California. Her people are wide awake and industrious, her capitalists willing to embark in every enterprise that tends to her building up, and in a short time, in a manufacturing way, she will eclipse any town in the Sacramento valley. The Woodland Democrat, in speakhave a fruit-cannery. Then our wool and fruits, two of the principa ndustries of our county, will be focalized at Woodland. Hundreds of young men, who are lounging away their time for wan hemselves out of board and lodging, wil find remunerative employment, and that too, right here in Woodland. Far be it hat such men as those whose souls have been big enough to set this institution on foot should ever be guilty of advocating the employment of the detestable cheap labor of the Chinese in preference to that of our own race. We suggest such a clause be inserted in the articles of incorporation. The Sutter County Colony. Sutter City is the name of a new colon being established in Sutter county by syndicate with a capital of a million and a TUESDAYS AND FRIDAYS half dollars. The Democrat says: There are not enough carpenters to be found to o the work, and not teams enough to ge upon the Government immensely greater the needed lumber on the grounds. George Summy, who has the contract for the grad ng of the streets, is busy at work with eams, plows and scrapers putting the own in order, and everywhere is heard the carpenter's saw and hammer. About ter new houses are now under way or just eady to be started. Within the next thirty days the new city will put on the appearances of a city sure enough, for ere will be stores, blacksmith shops warehouses and other business house pring up all over the town. In a few days quarry-men will be put to work get ing out the stone for the foundation for the new school-house, and J. H. GENERAL NOTICES.

Advice to Mothers.—Mrs. Winslo a SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when the hidden are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gams, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoa, whether arising from teething or other causes. POLICE COURT.

A Stubborn Thief Gets 100 Days in the Chain-Gang. The town is very quiet, and the number of arrests by the police are not up to the average. Two cases of petty larceny came up before Judge Buckley vesterday morning. That of John Sullivan was first called, and he sharply entered a plea of not guilty. A trial resulted in his discharge. the defendant was going to act stubbornly, a plea of guilty would not be accepted, as he did not wish Morrison to go about telling persons that he had to plead guilty. Morrison, however, insisted on entering that plea, and the trial proceeded. With persess testified to having seen defendant. nesses testified to having seen defendant going out of the Dewitt building with a comforter under his arm, and also to having seen him try to dispose of a lookingglass, which was stolen property. Morrison tried to make an excuse, but it was a very bungling job. He would not tell where the comforter was, and the Court said for that reason he would make the sentence a heavy one. All were of the opinion that the charge of burglary could be successfully sustained against him. The

The fire was caused by the chimney getting overheated. This ignited some clothing in a closet, which soon be-came enveloped in flames. The loss of clothing and furniture will amount to about $40. Within the last year or two, at frequent ntervals, residences in the southern part Seventh and O streets. One day, nearly a year ago, the residence of Judge Armstrong, 917 O street, was entered, and a pair of pearl opera glasses, some gloves and other trinkets taken. Nothing was heard of the property, though diligent search was made for it, until a few weeks since, when the glasses were seen in the possession of a little girl, who, upon being questioned, stated that she had received them from Amy Cook. Subsequently nearly all of the property was recovered. Later another resince in the vicinity was entered, and some jewelry taken. On being questioned the girl admitted having taken the property, and returned it to the owners. These

On motion of the City Attorney the charge was reduced to petty larceny, and the defendant said he friends. In this manner a valuable gold the City Attorney the charge was reduced to petty larceny, and the defendant said he guessed he would have to enter a plea of guilty. Judge Buckley told him that he would be allowed to enter whatever plea he wished. The Court further stated that if the defendant was going to act stubbornly, a plea of guilty would not be accepted, as he did not wish Morrison to go about telliguarded for a moment she would desert her home. At one time she was absent for her home. At one time she was absent for two days, sleeping at nights in a stable. After this her parents, for whom the neighbors manifest unbounded sympathy, confined her in a room with bonds she could not break. Yesterday she was relieved of hem in order to allow her to have a bath and a change of clothing. A moment after being released, her mother was called down stairs. This opportunity to escape was immediately availed of by the girl, and quickly leaving the house, she went to the residence of Judge Beatty, at Seventh and M streets, and gave it a thorough ransacking. She examined every nook and corner on the upper floor, and turned the contents of the bureau drawers upon the carpets, taking only what suited her fancy. Having completed her search, she gathered up

A BUNDLE OF GOODS And left the house, taking with her a key to an outside door. An examination of the premises revealed that she had taken $21 50, some lace handkerchiefs, a large silk handkerchief, a pair of lady's new kid shoes and a pair of kid gloves, the property of the nurse girl. She also took some of the clothes and dresses of the daughter of Judge Beatty, together with several other small articles. A jewelry box containing several pair of valuable gold sleeve buttons was emptied of its contents, but they were left. As she was leaving the house she was met by Judge Beatty's little daughter, with whom she stopped and talked, having the stolen articles then in her hand. This did not arouse Alma Beatty's suspicion that anything was wrong, because a short time pre-viously Amy had come to Judge Beatty's house and represented that her mother was a widow, with seven small children dependent upon her for their support. She begged of Mrs. Beatty some old clothes of which she said her brothers and sisters were much in need. One of the peculiar-ities of her exploits while at Judge Beatty's was, that having found a dress too small for her, she procured a pair of scissors and attempted to cut off the trimmings, but left the task unfinished. Another evidence of cunning is the fact that the child locked the rooms she ransacked, thus preventing access to them while she was there. Since

An Important Move in Window Shades.

The Window-shade business has always been a thriving one with us. We have been able at all times to lead in goods and prices, and naturally have gathered here a large trade.

Commencing with the new year, we shall take a decided step forward. Prices are to be no higher, and goods very much better.

Some of the new things are already in stock. Let us look at them:

The material used is new. A fine linen-finished Holland takes the place of the ordinary rough opaque cloth. The new stuff won't show finger marks like the old. It won't wrinkle or crack. In these respects it will add several years to the wear of the shades. But the new cloth has still other advantages. Being smooth, it presents a superior surface for gilding and coloring. As a result the ornamental designs are clearer and more distinct than on ordinary shades.

Now as to prices:

For seventy-five cents we have the new shades on patent rollers, the dados in gilt and velvet designs fully fifteen inches deep.

At eighty-five cents, still deeper and more elaborate

At one dollar, something entirely new-a large gilt oblong design in the center of the shade. This is sure to be a popular style.

At one dollar and twenty-five cents we show a dado of gilt and velvet, finished with large ferns, hand-painted in several colors.

We have devoted our whole space to these goods to-day, and do not believe that in so doing we have over-estimated the importance of the news.
